

Forbes

20 Tips To Help
Leaders Decide
Whether To Coach
Or Mentor Team
Members

Forbes

Mentors Are More Directive

Mentors have often walked the path themselves. So, for example, a retired CEO who started and grew an organization could come back to mentor leaders of that organization. Mentoring is more directive. It's not about the mentor motivating leaders to make more profits. The mentor might actually tell leaders the exact three things to do to make the organization more profitable within the next six months.

Vinesh Sukumaran